As a promotor of an FWO fellow, you are expected to commit to a number of tasks and responsibilities in line with the FWO's profile of a good promotor. One of these responsibilities is to ensure that the FWO fellow's expertise aligns with the requirements of the project and that the candidate is effectively embedded within the research group to give optimal opportunities for further development of their research expertise and competences. You are also expected to provide a high-quality professional environment for the researcher which includes providing the required scientific supervision, access to relevant expertise and infrastructure, and attention to the psychosocial well-being of all parties involved.

Part A: Assessment of the candidate's expertise, research competences in relation to the proposed research.

Please provide a detailed description of the applicant's expertise, supported by concrete examples to substantiate the candidate's skills and competences in relation to the proposed research. In addition, clearly indicate how this expertise and the proposed research will be integrated within your research group and broader network, how you will provide the necessary intellectual embedding, access to research infrastructure to maximize the feasibility and successful completion of the research project. For postdoctoral candidates, also elaborate on their potential to develop into an independent researcher and how the proposed research and supervision will support this trajectory.

Part B: Description of the proper research embedding and supervision plan.

Please provide a supervision plan which includes at least the following aspects:

-Explain how your expertise fits with the requirements of the project and, where applicable, how you will provide access to infrastructure or other expertise. If other researchers will be involved in the supervision, describe their roles in detail.

-Indicate which competences the applicant needs to strengthen and how you will contribute to this process (if applicable, refer to the relevant section in the applicant's proposal to avoid overlap).

By submitting this letter of commitment, you formally agree to adhere to the requirements set out by the FWO in the profile of the good promotor/supervisor:
